RI							The state has a research consortium, which was formed as a result of a governor initiated Urban Task Force. The research consortium consists of institutions of higher education, non-profit research entities and statewide think tanks. Though the group meets regularly, there needs to be a more formalized agreement about roles and responsibilities. On the higher education side, the Office of Higher Education has a long-standing research agenda and data sharing agreement with a local university.

WI	WI DPI has a research agenda based on WI DPI needs and statutory requirements. Collaboration with outside organizations (especially the University of Wisconsin) occurs to address these needs and requirements. Examples include educator supply and demand studies, student achievement guarantee in education (SAGE) evaluation, etc.
WV	As a part of the P-20 development, a cadre of researchers will be used to help with the design of the system of reports and data extracts from the P-20 databases.
WY	Turning data into information is a high priority for Wyoming's education agency and partner agencies. Efforts to develop actionable policy are in their infancy.
